Re: James Kekanovich

My relationship with James Kekanovich is one of a coaching relationship. Knowing James through being enrolled in our Sales Advantage project, we have built a strong and sustainable relationship of client/confidant.

James is an individual who takes great pride in who he is and how he shows up in the marketplace. His special attention for detail and support is one to be admired and followed. In addition, being a creative person, James has a talent of seeing things from a different perspective to produce the results his clients are looking for. One unique skill is that James can create an analogy for anything.

I admire James for his commitment to learning, growing and continually challenging himself to raise the bar.

All the best,

Ian Hardy
